Maybe right now, this is the best that you've found - to live a life that's tearing you down day by day. Maybe right now, you can't seem to find a way out and you're afraid to trust in the sound of your own voice, so listen...

Runaway, we're gonna write our perfect story - all the way until the end. Runaway, if you think something else is waiting, follow me until the end.

So where do you go when all of the places you know, they no longer feel like a home? When there's no painted road to lead you to where you should be, could you find the strength to believe? That more is waiting if you just leave this life behind, and choose today to...

Sometimes you just don't know, but there's a risk worth taking to find the life that's waiting. So don't be afraid to make a choice - let go. I'll be right here waiting for you. You were never alone.
