Up high above the fading lights
We stare and wait for something
So sit down across the table and we will talk about the words that we said
I am not so far behind

Waiting for the judgement call
We will not justify Justify my life again
As the ending stretches far beyond our sight
We think of it always
Always if we run, we can't hide
How could we know?
We give it all away

Up high above the fading lights
We stare and wait for something
So sit down across the table and we will talk about the
words that we said
I am not so far behind

Waiting for our grace to fall
Our graves, we will defy
Redefine this right again
Though I never thought we'd make it through the night

We think of it always
Always we can't run, we can't hide
So let me go
And give it all away

Up high above the fading lights
We stare and wait for something
So sit down across the table and we will talk about the
words that we said
I am not so far behind

Don't let us turn away
And if we feel our souls descending
Will you pull us through into another day?

Braving forever, we'll never speak again
Turn back, remember, until we reach the end
Our wings unfolded (for all that we are)
But folding down (for all that we shattered)
Yeah, as we ascend
So get back in line and move us along
Does it matter? (As we fall from the sky)
Did we matter?
