(Little bitch - The Specials)

If you ever hear a noise in the night
Your body starts to sweat
It shakes with shivers in fright
You go and sleep with your mother
She hates your guts
She knows that you love her
So she holds you tight
All through the night
Until the brood daylight
But when she doesn't come home
You have to sleep alone
Then you wet your bed
And I think that's sad
For a girl of nineteen
It's more than sad it's abscene

And your girlfriend's sweet little seventeen
She's got her layered hair
And her flared jeans
You know what that means
She's just a little pretty
She shares your London flat
She thinks her bloke knows where it's at
Although he stinks
And when it rains you wears your hat
