Thirteen valleys he has wandered for her love
For he thinks he is the one she dreams of
But her bed was made elsewhere
From the first day she got there
Now he wanders thirteen valleys crying out

It could have been me
A broken heart
Needs someone new to blame it on

Thirteen valleys she has gone since morning came
She gave so much that only love remains
Her lover is long gone
With the money she sent on
Now she wanders thirteen valleys crying out

It could have been me
A broken heart
Needs someone new to blame it on

That broken heart will be forever and a lifetime
That broken heart will try your love like none before
You may fight or you may run
For what was fast is now undone
A broken heart needs someone new to blame it on

Thirteen valleys lying silent in the haze
Filled with promises and spirits that we raise
But the spirits all are ghosts
Of the ones who hurt the most
And they wander thirteen valleys crying out

That broken heart will be forever and a lifetime
That broken heart will try your love like none before
You may fight or you may run
For what was fast is now undone
A broken heart needs someone new to blame it on
