So turn away, turn away, from everything.
What I became I believed is forever changing,
I can sit around and waste away,
I'm counting down every single day

And I will close,

My eyes to the past,
I'm looking forward now,
But I'd rather die than rest,
When my life's past by somehow.

This is the end, of everyone,
And time can kill, what's just begun,
You keep looking, for any little thing
To show me I am the end

And I will close,
My eyes to the past,
I'm looking forward now,
But I'd rather die than rest,
When my life's past by somehow.

We won't let the past define us,
We're looking forward now,
We won't let the past define us,
We're looking forward now.

And I will close,

My eyes to the past,
I'm looking forward now,
But I'd rather die than rest,
When my life's past by somehow.

Close my eyes to the past,
I'm looking forward now,
But I'd rather die than rest,
When my life's past by somehow.
