You thought you knew it all
You thought you had it made
When you were standing in my shade

But something had to give
And something had to change
And its as crazy as it seems

And oh its such a long road
When you go it on your own
But don't afraid
To come home

Well you live and you learn
And its always such a shame
There's just some things you can't explain

So you try to forgive
And you cover up the pain
There's only so much you can take

You might say its alright
And you enjoy the sunlight
And Its a blessing on your soul

Its the choices we don't make
And the paths that we don't take
That can lead us to being alone

But don't be afraid
To come home
No don't be afraid
To come home
