

Deas Vail "Balance"

When we all move on
And go back to the start
To when there was no wrong
And we could love
Without a fear of change
With the courage of kings
With a steady hand we'll place everything
Together again
We'll be together again
So let's begin to take this in

You are the balance
You are the fold
You are the sails that bring me home

I'm looking for that clearer water
I'll never be thirsty again
If I could just touch the robe
It could all be over
And all my sorrows could end
This is what I'm waiting for
I know that there's something more on the way

You are the balance
You are the fold
You are the sails that bring me home
You are the balance
You are the fold
You are the sails that bring me home
