Taken from the deep from the corners of our hollow memories bringing us to who we are coming endlessly, we are lost in imagery you're teaching us to see all the places left behind we're taking our time with this while you're calling to sort out our weaknesses we're putting in lives in this falling over ourselves til it all makes sense can you see our thought do you turn your head again? we're so alone and lost reaching for our innocence have we always been going out or coming in?

and will we see this end?

will you remember everyone?

we're putting our lives in this

(instrumental break)

we're taking our time with this

we were so far gone from the place where we belong but now we're going strong dont you know we had this all along?
