His head was a city of paper buildings and the echoes that remained of old friends and lovers their features bleeding together in his brain, oh ho ho

And once it starts it was harder to tell them apart, oh ho ho

He was always distracted by the very mention of an open door, oh ho ho cuz he had sworn not to be what he'd been before to be a remain remain remain remainder

The television was snowing softly as she hunted for her keys She said never envisioned him the type of person capable of such deceit, oh ho ho oh ho ho

And then they carried on like long division as it was clear with every page oh that they were further away from a solution that would play without a remain remain remain remainder

he had sworn not to be what he'd been before to be the remain remain remain remainder
to be the remain remain remain remainder
