He left one Tuesday morning
Didn't have any bills to pay
Just the silver dollars in his pocket
And the ring upon his finger
Ann Arbor Grandfather

Early on a Sunday morning
A deacon wipes the tar off his feet
Drawing pictures during the sermon
Oh yeah, Grandfather, I think it's funny
Ann Arbor Grandfather

There's a picture on a wall in Duluth
Another grandma has passed away
Her children rummage through her leavings
They put them in new boxes
And they put the new boxes in new attics
