"Beautiful Rain"

Desperate chances and accidental meetings
Spin out your life as your, your stars collide
And I forget your name

It was coming down like, down like sheets of silver
Streets like wild rivers cry
Lightning, thunder, flash across the building
Plays on our roof tonight

Sunshine, no, it ain't for me
'Twas pouring on the day you came
Now that I'm yours
I finally learned to see the beautiful rain

I skid it out, I lost control
Don't turn away, turn away, turn away
Darling, I won't let go

Took our chances as we were lost and drifting
Without words to say
When the storm comes with tales for all our children
How we crashed our cars that day

Sunshine, no, it ain't for me
'Twas pouring on the day you came
Now that I'm yours
I finally learned to see

I'm drenched with gladness
Dance with you madly in the, the beautiful rain
