This is not a test you can afford to fail or try to cheat your way through To lose your concentration opens the door to accusation
Trusth you cannot handle Truth is your demise
It will bring you downCall upon your fathers adn the ghosts
You pray that they watch over you and keep your safe from Wrong that you've inflicted Wrong to believe the lies That would have told that you've been told and wonder why
This is not a test there will be another
This is not a test if your not guilty you will be No transfusion for a soul bled bone dry

Nothing left to save your trapped in a world you've given up on World diseased Don't bother acting surprised your failure's standing in front of you
This is not a test there will be another
This is not a test if your not guilty you will be
And where does your conscience reside somewhere that you no longer
Regard as a part of yourself wallow in the lifeyou waste Your complacence completely staged To distacne yourself form all your mistakes
This is not a test there will be another
This is not a test if your not guilty you will be
