Cauterized empty sky
Probing your way through the barren landscape
Seasons without end
Holding onto every last breathe under its weight you fall
It's obvious it's over sterilize memories
Retching on promises never delivered life has given up
Common sense kills the notion of your savior
Dislocating the horizon no rapture to awaken
The faithless ties that bind control choking need
Running headlong into teh flood
No end in sight
Sureling this drought should end here and now
I'm still waiting
It's obvious it's over dislocating the horizon

Who will be the one to breathe earth from the sky and end it all
Life will fall below the surface
In this truth blood is made suffer existance
Waiting for judgement
Who will be the one to rip the earth from teh sky
Caked in dirt parched dying of thirst
With hands held aloft to witness the sky shedding skin
One million prayers washed away
Seperating before the eyes of those too tired to cry
No end in sight
Surely this drought should end here and now
I'm still waiting
