I see the town where we were born I see the place we were raised
I see all the things you wanted that I never gave I see sadness I see sorrow I see pain on your face
But I just can't see a stranger in my place

I can see now where we quarreled I can see how I was wrong
I can see where you might weaken but I wasn't strong
I see mem'ries of a love gone bad that time can't erase
But I just can't see a stranger in my place

No one seems to know you quite like I do
And no one knows the things that make you cry like I do Looking back it seems I never showed you And now I lay alone and wonder why

I can see now where you might grow tired of dreams that don't come true
I can see where I have fallen short of the things I promised you
I can see now through my tear filled eyes no love on your face
I must get used to see a stranger in my place
I must get used to see a stranger in my place
