(Stand at your window some night)
Again let me see the one who is holding
The best part of me
(Stand at your window some night)
Look at my side of town
Remember if you change your mind
You know where I'll be found

Each night I look up at your mansion
I see the window where the light shines through
And I wonder if you still remember
The one that you left for someone new

(Stand at your window)

Each night as I wait here in the darkness
I watch your window so high above
I'm longing for a look at my old sweetheart
A look at the one that I still love

(Stand at your window)
(Stand at your window)
