Too many city blocks with crumbled walks and blue-collar spenders
Too many boarded shops and no-where job for faded contenders
I close my eyes and let go and nobody knows you
I close my eyes and let go when no one controls you

I keep staring at the stars,
waiting for my life to change like dust in gravity
Lying with my head above the clouds,
I don't want a life in vain like dust in gravity
Living for the dawn keeps me hanging on

Hole in my pocket got me locked inside a job that i hate
I got a dream about a scene but I'm still stuck in my state
I close my eyes and let go and nobody knows you (No, No, No)
I close my eyes and let go when no one controls you

(I keep staring at the stars)
I keep staring at the stars,
waiting for my life to change like dust in gravity
Lying with my head above the clouds,
I don't want a life in vain like dust in gravity
Living for the dawn keeps me hanging on,
on, on, on, onâ€¦ hanging onâ€¦

I keep staring at the eyes,
I close my eyes and let go,
I close my eyes and let go

I keep staring at the stars,
waiting for my life to change like dust in gravity
Lying with my head above the clouds,
I don't want a life in vain like dust in gravity
