Open your eyes
He's never gonna change
He went through rough things in his life
Just get out of his range
I can't just sit here and watch
How he hurts you again and again
How can you still let him touch you
You mistook him for something he's not
And now it's time to wake up

(Chorus)
Light your light
Light your light
The right one is waiting out there
Light your light
Light your light
And that someone will truly care

You tend to find excuses
For all the things he does
But look at your bruises
We all have a choice
You mistook him for something he's not
And now it's time to wake up

(Chorus)
Light your light
Light your light
The right one is waiting out there
Light your light
Light your light
And that someone will truly care

The damage is done
Your daydream is broken
There's nothing left worth to hold on to

I know it hurts to ignite
When you put so much effort in this
But it's time to (look right?)
You mistook him for something he's not
And now it's time to wake up

(Chorus)
Light your light
Light your light
The right one is waiting out there
Light your light
Light your light
And that someone will truly care

That someone out there
That someone out there
Will truly care.
