It's half past nine, I have some wine
It's raining and feet wet
I lay here, I'm colder now
I meet them in a group, we ape my talk
There's things I long to do
But sometimes you need a clue
Let's get some glue

Darkened sky, it's raining still
Standin' in a brick enclosure, drinking wine
I feel wet from nights before
The rain floods through the door
I gave up glue

When I got home I said, "I'm ill, I'm going to bed, There's got to be more than this"
I found out there is
