"No Danger"

I've been hanging round for days still confused about the way you came Take the portraits from the wall take them down and burn them all I know what I've become

By the marks upon their arms there was nothing that they lacked in charm But now I've got to choose who from you is gonna lose and who is going through

By the stories that were told I decided to reject the bold embrace the cowardly and the weak we had laughs that lasted weeks they're inside and I sing here

Now I would swear this life is you You've been around since we were twenty two but now you've got the rush when you're cold and when you're touched I know things don't mean much
'Cause we don't know we're strong enough
and chances come too soon
But people, people, we're not in love and now we're singing out of tune

Just go out and get it straight
There are questions here that just can't wait Leave romantics to their spite leave the footballs to their pints alternatives we'll find

But there's nothing we can find while our lives are plush and kind of fine So we'll all call it a day people follow in our wake a nothing's hall of fame

'Cause we don't know we're strong enough

But people, people, we're not in love
and now we're singing out of tune

Come on babies, find a vein Roll your sleeves up, find your arms insane Walking out in little lines down the corridors of life and on to what you'll find

Out the door and down the street over fences glens and ditches deep And who from us is gonna choose who will win and who will lose?
I know it won't be me

'Cause we don't know we're strong enough
But people, people, we're not in love

But people, people, we're not in love
and now we're singing out of tune
