Look around at what you see
There's an S.O.S. ringing out for me
I thought I believed but I just turn away
From these souls living in this hell today

Tears are falling on my face
From my face

And love, love will find a way to break through
This love finds a way to shine through
Your love finds a way to break through
This love finds a way to kiss you

I stare in the eyes of this flesh and bone
I'm a tourist here so tomorrow I go home
I try to make sense of the things I've seen
Between the poverty and the five star dream

Tears are falling on my face
From my face

And love, love will find a way to break through
This love finds a way to shine through
Your love finds a way to break through
This love finds a way to kiss you

Love will lead me to Your feet
Love won't pass me on the street
Love will look me in the eye
Love won't leave me here to die

To Your arms I'm gonna run
And escape what I've become
Love will find a better way, so they say

And love, love will find a way to break through
This love finds a way to shine through
Your love finds a way to break through
This love

His love it will break you
Love it will take you

His love, it will break you down

And His love, it will break me
Love it will take me
Love it will break me down
Love will find a way
