I walk alone where nobody can see and where I only know.

I must avoid the flock, they are chasing me like dogs after their bleeding prey.

For a useless entrails they bury their honour

Chasing a worthless moment of glory.

They are many and they cover with one another because it's their only way

- Run! A bunch of wolves is coming with their mouth dripping acid,

Vomited by the cowardice of being lonely.

Your courage isn't worth anything,

You are a thousand wolves

They merge their bleats to make them sound like roars,

But that isn't worth anything,

What are you without your band?

You couldn't even scare a child because

When you are alone you are empty useless boxes

With no emotions to classify you as humans.

You don't scare me now and forever.

You are 1000 but I know you and I know that your strength doesn't exist

You are just 1000 sheep,

Widen your empty eyes and you will see what it means to me!

- Run! Your courage isn't worth anything,

You are a thousand wolves, just sheep

Prepare your stronghold,

Useless illusions you must disappear!
