I feel like everybody has a family
I mean everybody has relatives, You may not have a dad or a mom or whatever but You got something or someone youre loyal to or whos loyal to you I always heard blood makes you related and loyalty makes you family
The people Im around, from my homies, mentors, crew thats my family Theyre my motivation, they the reason that these late nights happen
One of the reasons it makes sense, one of the reasons being successful is so important to me I feel like family doesnt always mean youre with each other But the love is always with each other, that means when you come back that the love is still the same Even stronger than the last time You can say the craziest shit, the most hurtful things but the next day its like nothing happened You have people in your life that will always be there, you can call on and who can call on you?
Cause its not just about having somebody, its about being that somebody, too Hope in others, I personally get inspiration just from that feeling Cause I know we live in a world based on karma Doing the best you can do, watching it all come back You can try and do it alone, do whatever you do by yourself
I aint saying you cant get far in it, but when you come together, form a team
A unit, it can only go further, faster I remember hitting my all-time low, depressed, stuff really just wasnt working out But if I could go back now and tell myself anything Its that nothing ever comes out of fear or negativity You cant expect the best if youre not at your best or feel your best Thats just the law of the world
But if you imagine how it feels to be doing everything you want, everything you dream And you know and accept whats coming, then pay attention to how that feels Pay attention to how you feel then Because when you know what you want is on the way, notice how much better you feel Thats the first step to creating a world you want, you make your own limits That was my family who taught me that Certain people who stepped in and picked me up when I was down

Believed in me when it was hard to believe in myself
And I dont wanna let them down I was recording out of closets, basements, my manager Mike Brinks was sending me beats way back Before any labels were interested, before anything And just using his relationships he had to help break me through, help build my buzz
The people I was working with for cutting me deals let e record for free
I was getting so many breaks, the people who believed in me
Went above and beyond to help me make it all happen
And I would go above and beyond for them Because thats what family does for each other
