I'm not the only one who can't see why it crossed your mind

I see your life and death reduced into a product line
It's not enough to see you speaking through the blindest of eyes

The same dead, cold breath is reducing mine

I can't see why, why
You're not a saint, you're a thief
You can't deny, deny
It's all a ploy underneath

All I've seen
(You better learn to keep your face under the dark)
All I need
(Wake up and feel the blood escape your heart)

Your disease
(For every word that you devalue and mistake)
I can't breathe
(For every soul you nauseate with what you say)

You've brought this verdict on yourself
(Before we ever had a chance)
I hope you cry for the ones you've lost

You built this burden when you fell
(You know we never took a glance)
I hope it's worth all the blood it cost

It's been a long way back from the dissipated path
Only half way through, say goodbye and take a breath
And when the end shines new with the burn of nothing left
I'll give you one last chance to say you're done and give it back

I won't agree, agree
Your remedy is a joke
I can't believe, believe
That you can breathe and not choke

All I've seen
(You better learn to keep your face under the dark)
All I need
(Wake up and feel the blood escape your heart)

Your disease
(For every word that you devalue and mistake)
I can't breathe
(For every soul you nauseate with what you say)

You've brought this verdict on yourself
(Before we ever had a chance)
I hope you cry for the ones you've lost

You built this burden when you fell
(You know we never took a glance)
I hope it's worth all the blood it cost

Peddle your faith to the blind
And cheapen the love that you feel so painful
Pushing the guilt through your spine
And suffer the mold of a prime example

Peddle your faith to the blind
And cheapen the love that you feel so painful
Pushing the guilt through your spine
And suffer the mold of a prime example

You've brought this verdict on yourself
(Before we ever had a chance)
I hope you cry for the ones you've lost

You built this burden when you fell
(You know we never took a glance)
I hope it's worth all the blood it cost

You've brought this verdict on yourself
(Before we ever had a chance)
I hope you cry for the ones you've lost

You built this burden when you fell
(You know we never took a glance)
I hope it's worth all the blood it cost

I feel my lungs beginning to burn

With every foolish word that you spit, another nail you'll get
With every foolish word that you spit, another nail you'll
