We lay face down in pale solitude
To save face we pulled our walls in front of you
To the same place where we danced in front of you
We fell from grace, watched the hope fall from your face

This isn't me I used to say
And all the love was so gone
It feels good to be alive
And I've been dead for so long

And all the broken promises, I can't face
Afraid if someone notices, I'll lose my place
Fractured, broken, paralyzed I need some space
Tear me open, analyze

This isn't me I used to say
And all the love was so gone
It feels good to be alive
And I've been dead for so long

Wake up screaming, I'm awake and dreaming
And I won't stop breathing 'til my heart stops beating

This isn't me I used to say
And all the love was so gone
And all the love was so gone
It feels good to be alive
I've been dead for so long
