people, you can find it a common ground safe and sound untouched and unconfined we all need it somewhere we can go to live our lives in paradise no way we'll do without it and although its just a drop in the ocean someday we'll all be free

free as the wind

like a river you flow through my veins somehow i feel i belong right here like the rain that falls
i know i can stay right here in mother love land

and nature has its ways of showing us its way had enough with the way we treat each other its not to late for a change where theres love theres a change we can make this world unite

in mother love land
