we've heard this all before you've got no surprises left in store everytime you play it it get's worse and our ears just want to make straight for the door that blasted radio inside our head replays your trash all you say that makes it great we say that we can't help but say we're only human and we have taken all that we can take this is all the time we have all the time we have for now
so could you turn it all the way down tell me how many times will you redo and rewrite that same old song and same old rhyme someday you'll have to say i'm only human and i have taken all that i can take.
