

Denison Marris

"You Feel Like"

Visit "You Feel Like" on MotoLyrics.com

i live down here on my knees and face where the prayers flow nonstop and the air is full of grace sometimes i feel so much like a coward i could die but then i feel your peace as you silently remind me that i can always hide inside your arms there's too much knowledge for one soul to bear i asked to receive it but now i just feel scared to know of all the hatred and see the apathy the chosen consequences it's all too much for me i'd much rather hide inside your arms because somehow i feel that i belong you feel like home i know my place is here at least for a little while and i'll keep on until you call your faithful child but any strength that you can lend out to me so i can send words of hope and life i sure could use them tonight

Visit Denison Marris page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.