1, 2 ready go

This big city seemed like a small town till you left me
Now I look for you everywhere but I can't find a trace
Without you the city's cold and unforgiving
Among millions I feel all alone, lost and out of place

I left with you against my own better judgment
I wasn't ready to leave my family home
But our little town couldn't hold your big ideas
And I knew I couldn't hold you on the phone

This big city seemed like a small town till you left me
Now I look for you everywhere but I can't find a trace

Without you the city's cold and unforgiving
Among millions I feel all alone, lost and out of place

Into mighty wild and fast company
I trusted your older eyes to see straight
But money and champagne, well, it changed your point of view
By the time I noticed, it was far too late

This big city seemed like a small town till you left me
Now I look for you everywhere but I can't find a trace
Without you the city's cold and unforgiving
Among millions I feel all alone, lost and out of place
Among millions I feel all alone, lost and out of place
