

Derek Daisey "Where To Begin"

Visit "Where To Begin" on MotoLyrics.com

I took a train to San Francisco, wherever you are.
I found you outside of St. Francis, Boulevard
And you're stunning, in my eyes.

You got your hair pulled back and a book in your hand,
I haven't seen you so long, now where to begin.
And I'm trapped, in a daze, in your eyes.

Firefly burns his way to a rainbow, for that second try.
Giving me looks, and now I'm able to still get butterflies.

Took the flight to Cincinatti, to see you again,
But this time I surprise you, the new year begin.
And It's you, looking into my eyes.

You took a drive to the city, and had a good time.
This world was our heaven, and we were alive.
For once, together, in our eyes.

And it's time to go again.

I took a train back home, and hopped into bed.
I opened my eyes, and there, there you were.
Just as beautiful as I remembered.

I opened my arms, and then pulled you in.
I promise, I swear, I will lose you again.

Just don't, please don't, close you eyes.
Just don't, please don't, close you eyes.
Just don't, close your eyes.

Visit Derek Daisey page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.