Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells, Bells...

Behind the snowy window pane I wait for you to come again long for my ship to come to shore but no-one's knocking at my door

Children are chanting in the street.
Love and togetherness they greet.
'Come on ye faithful' they will sing but I don't feel the joy they bring..
My heart is darkened by the fear that you won't be with me this year and every single memory has made me wait, inside of me.

Jingle bells, Jingle bells

This Christmas Eve
and joy full-time
won't mean a thing
if you are not mine.

I lock the door
turn off the light
still hearing whispers in the night. one carol more, one last, will bring it's gonna melt my heart again.
