RECORDED BY JOHN RANDALL

G C G The saddest face I've ever shaved is staring back at me My eyes look like a roadmap A7 D7 Lord I ain't slept a wink G So I turned on the radio C G Heard the forecast on the news C G D7 G They're calling for a cold coffee morning and a warm beer afternoon G C G Better get out my umbrella C G There's some teardrops coming down The rader has detected D7 A heartache west of town G C G Now I'm directly in the path of a love that died too soon C G D G It's gonna be a cold coffee morning and a warm beer afternoon C G D G E A She hit me like a hurricane D A And blew my heart away She clouded up my thinking B7 E7 And rained on my parade A I'm here in the aftermath D A With nothing to hold on to D A E A Nothing but a cold coffee morning and a warm beer afternoon A D A Better get out my umbrella D A There's some teardrops coming down The rader has detected E7 A heartache west of town A D A Now I'm directly in the path of a love that died too soon D A E A It's gonna be cold coffee morning and a warm beer afternoon A D A Now I'm directly in the path of a love that died too soon D A E A It's gonna be a cold coffee morning and a warm beer afternoon
