(Sydney Nathan - Arthur Q. Smith)

Next sunday darling is my birthday
A day that should be free from care
Best wishes and congratulations
But only sorrow fills the air.

While friends are singing happy birthday
There'll be a smile upon my face
But when they're gone the smile will vanish
A broken heart will take it's place.

--- Instrumental ---

Another year has come and gone now
The plans I made have gone astray
The day that should be filled with laughter
Will only be another day.

While friends are singing happy birthday
There'll be a smile upon my face
But when they're gone the smile will vanish
A broken heart will take it's place.

Next sunday darling, is my birthday...
