Where do you fit it?
get your place and decide which side you are on the one that's forged in flames and tempered with a season of hope or theirs built on lies, and an insatiable to desire to drain you life drift alone on your own plain seems you have no place to go yet you're always chased by a sense of paranoia while i'm always free no chains and nothing to hold me back i'll help you through your pain but i have no patience for your lies we'll make it together, and i wont let you down the time has come, this you will see
