"The Last Kiss Good-bye"

My heart
my life i owe to you friend how you used to light the night and so accustomed iâ'd become to your smile a comfort like none other and words as soft as feathers and now to see you lying here uneventful, awaiting entrance into a place i cannot go and i don't know why, you must go but if you have to then you must and life's been real selfish keeping you, confined to us caring like yours is so valuable... and now its time for others to see what we've always known (2x)

in a land of false emotions you were always true
