every word is horse-drawn i'll catch on these nails arent as dull as you think ill catch on fast edging toward the door make sure you keep your eye on the prize this is the crack that broke your mother's back rely on every single word i cant breathe in my sleep while everybody's wide awake we're having company over. don't let them see the old man off with his head. off with every burden. off with his head. with every inch closer you're eating your words to the bone each letter gets caught in your throat. i wanted nothing before my luck ran out
