This night had killed the sun out of her life,
And left a torn shade in it's gloom.
All leaves had fallen in early months,
Leaving her naked with those wounds.
Her skin is beautiful make-up.
Her skin is beautiful make-up.
This face is stone and fists are devastating.
This face is stone and fists are devastating.
Ten razors cut too deep into her flesh,
This time they reached the blossom.
Into the unknown with your enemy at your side,
What will your worst nightmare be like?
More than once had she forgiven,
More than once had she been betrayed,
Where angels kill their saints.
