Run

it's obvious that you cannot see she stands with cupid's heart in her fist and i have the feeling that i'm losing you again but yeah, it's alright your time is up, you're taking this too far your time is up, you've taken this too far rise up to fight this witness she said to leave this sorrow your sin to powder your eyes beside you i see the war start i'm down this road, so what's left? to fall into you, to give it all again to pull the sunset from your eyes and you already have gone you fool yourself, but i can't help but stop fighting you i still see the fear in your eyes wasting away just thinking about the end i know, this is the last time before it's over, and then it's gone

beached from the wrath of your own fists i guess i can't believe a single word that you said the smokes in the air, which mean's that you're too late to be saved this is how we set fire to the storm things never change but was it too much to ask? i don't fucking think so i'm already sick of the truth complete: a word that you will never want to know but you don't care

watch me fall
