Hate; the only thing that moved inside of you
A blind crusade that we all knew would fall apart
You do not think; you only resist You're losing the ones that once stood by your side You're losing your friends
You're losing your trust
You're losing the ones who ever cared for you

I will not forget the past because it hurt; it made me stronger You will just avoid the truth before you know it all will collapse
You take control
No thought; chasing a war Can't say we all played a part in this
You have yourself
You don't take in a thing we say believing that we're all fine
The truth is that you're losing ground
Because the higher you climb the further you fall

And I'll be able to see a fountain of my memories
unfold
You said you won't, but I don't believe
And I will not go until we search through our own souls

Open the door to yourself, to us all If we hold the weight of all our mistakes we'd hide inside ourselves and be alone
You did it before And we've borrowed time that's fallen from the outer sides of our thoughts And we've burnt all our ties
With your life ablaze you won't concede
A product of the same decay of your world
But you've never tried to see

And I'll be able to see a fountain of my memories
unfold
You said you won't, but I don't believe While all the time that you've spent on all the bad times that you have lived

But I hope you'll see; believe this was for the best.
