(Verse)

Welcome to my ghost ship,
The one I resurrected like the Black Pearl
And had it stay afloat
And from the day I booted on its vessel
I feel is thrown out of luck on any single ocean
And the seven seas too, but I got the wind on my souls and a good truth
And I grew up in the same neighborhood
And I will turn to south where the sky's forever blue.
Along the way I learned of lives I never knew
And I won't shut my mouth, who am I to tell the truth
But really, who am I, just a navigator
God defined a new star and imma find it I'll keep floating down the river till I see a finger up saying how'd y do
I'm like Columbus with the compass
So let me move.

(Hook)

I've been going down the river so long
And I don't even know where I belong
It's hard to know the life in the sun
It's like my head feels tied but my mind's still strong.
As life goes on, river takes me different places,
The fight goes on,
This ship's lowering its anchors,
Cause I've been rolling down this river so long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.

(Verse)

I started in a rough, I made into a craft, Then I was gone, hit the rason and the must,
I've seen pain and I'm a craft,
Cross paths and I see your ship alike like the cut you saw

In the woods where the pirates throw
And though it's just the five D, I fight myself,
I said I'll never make this, whole scenario, shape shift,
yeah
And all my cruise got a few stars like a grind Give me the pill on the cheer on a river full of tears that will take it from the lost souls
Left the grind here, I cry for help.
Is what they saw it as, but now my life's sick like the sight pitbul slightly mad
How I came from nothing, now I control the ways on this path.

(Hook)

I've been going down the river so long
And I don't even know where I belong
It's hard to know the life in the sun
It's like my head feels tied but my mind's still strong.
As life goes on, river takes me different places,
The fight goes on,
This ship's lowering its anchors,
Cause I've been rolling down this river so long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.

(Verse)

My mama gave birth side from the Thames, Then I float down to this ghost town, now I cool my ends
Where county starts and the city ends
And I learned to be careful when you're picking friends
Between the few men we had to build a boat
Lie it low, just to keep the dream afloat,
A lot of people fooled that it was washed out,
Hence the reason why they looked like they've seen a ghost
Call me Brook, call me bad or Davy Jones,
One captain that will send your whole navy home
And I will never rest on my scale in Therefore is real and you'll never call me lazy bones.
So welcome to my ghostship
Dad promised me the one that's gonna free my soul
So when the time comes in upon the beat
You know you might get to read my scores.

(Hook)

I've been going down the river so long
And I don't even know where I belong

It's hard to know the life in the sun
It's like my head feels tied but my mind's still strong.
As life goes on, river takes me different places,
The fight goes on,
This ship's lowering its anchors,
Cause I've been rolling down this river so long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.
So long, so long, I've been rolling down this river so
long.
