verse 1 (Devlin)

When the sky breaks it rains so just let the h2o splash upon the graves of all the souls I used to know but now have passed away Men say that time can heal a situation but this pain is not a passing phase now I'm curious, how many years a heart can ache feel like a minotaur, meandering this darkend place trying to find a way, to maybe find the light of day If I could rewind then I'd re-live my life again and sit and hold my nans hands, while she felt the pain and say hello to old mates, behind the pearly gates given the chance to glance back at my childish phase I'd try and smile the way i smiled, just like a child again before i had to sat goodbye to anybody and the loved ones I've lost, all had life within their bodies my side was less lonely then you wanna cry, well come and hold me then I think I need the blessing of some holy men

Chorus (Diane)

'Cause everything is different now
I'd really like to tell you how
How I wanted you here by my side
I know what I said, but I lied
It looked like I laughed, but I cried
But I wish I could push rewind

Verse 2 (Devlin)

If I had minutes on my hand, just like a time piece I'd turn the clocks back and maybe try to find peace as well as my i.d, so rewind me just like a video cassette cause I'm upset that I ain't seen some faces in a while, just apparitions in my dream that ends abruptly when they try to hug me through the screen
of smoke that's engulfing me like the coastline with its high tide and you can see the sands and the oceans meet

No one told me when this ride began to hold my seat time flies like emmet brown was in the drivers seat you talk of irony, well now I'm lonley but I'm searching for my privacy
this life won't comply with me I think I need some dead relatives, either side of me to keep me company and guide me through the library of never ending stories full of lies and deceit hi ho silver, lone ranger riding to the beat

Chorus (Diane)

I'd really like to tell you how
How I wanted you here by my side
I know what I said, but I lied
It looked like I laughed, but I cried

Verse 3 (Devlin)

If I could rewind time to its slowest I'd look at life at its highest and its lowest so I could maybe try to recollect what made me who I am besides a poet, besides a poet

Chorus(Diane)

'Cause everything is different now
I'd really like to tell you how
How I wanted you here by my side
I know what I said, but I lied
It looked like I laughed, but I cried
