you preach with such conviction but your life mirrors contradiction daddy foots the bills as you live a life of priveleged frills buying hair dye with mommy's visa card yet you bitch that life is so hard with a punker-than-thou attitude you hide behind a facade to elude

[Chorus:]

You're a simple book to read with your transparent creed Your facade recedes to your front-we do heed.

sent to an ivy league school only to come out a corporate fool one day sporting daddy's benz next day your politi-punk stance condescends your opinions are ineffectual you're a phoney pseudo-intellectual out to prove yourself with verbal affrays but your prescence here is just a phase

[Chorus]

you make attempts to theorize with motives contrived to criticize you'll find ways to falsly justify your guise to explain to yourself your lies you'll be gone in two years-an accurate prediction and elsewhere you'll live out a life of fiction family money affords your fleeting radical views but nothing can buy you true virtues

[Chorus]

[Repeat 1st Verse]

[Chorus x2]
