When I try to walk on water
And try to follow the steps of my father
It's so easy to forget
The lessons that I learned
Should we listen to the children
Take a look at what we're building
It's so easy to destroy
The world in which we live

It keeps me up late at night
When I'm staring at the ceiling
Deconstructing everything that I believe in Trying to hold on to these faded memories
Today is not the same as it was when I was younger
Is that a storm on its way I hear thunder
Wake me up before I slip into a dream

Have you tried to walk on water
Are you sinking as it gets harder
It's so easy to believe
When you're watching your TV
We should listen to the children
Try to feel what they are feeling
It's so easy to destroy
This world in which we live

Growing old late at night
When I'm staring at the ceiling
Trying to remember everything I believe in
Should I stop creating brand new memories
Today is not the same as it was when I was younger
The world is burning down and we're slipping under
Who will save us and try to set the people free

When we try to walk on water
And try to follow the steps of our fathers
Its so easy to forget the lessons we have learned
