I'll show you them now, those boys without cares Who'd swapped dirty pictures and talked during prayers
They grew up with wisdom they'd stored from 'Those days'
Nobody told them to get in, they must change

I'll show you something, come with me now
Stop at this place, stop at this place

The teachers laughed with them class idiot style After all they weren't their kids so why should they mind Boyish good looks held the wrath back a while And they were thumped in and drummed in and soon left behind

Alcoholics, child molesters, nervous wrecks and prima
donnas Jilted lovers, office clerks, petty thieves, hard drug pursuers
Lonely tramps and awkward misfits, anyone of these

Alcoholics, child molesters, nervous wrecks and prima
Jilted lovers, office clerks, petty thieves, hard drug
pursuers

Lonely tramps and awkward misfits, anyone of these

Mortgaged up families looked at first too mundane
But it's funny how with help all the lucky ones changed
But some of them couldn't, there had to be more Music, I dunno, films, something special perhaps

I'll show you something, come with me now
Stop at this place, stop at this place, stop at this place

It's so hard to picture dirty tramps as young boys But if you see a man crying, hold his hand, he's my friend
If these words sound corny, switch it off, I don't care

Nearby he's still crying, I won't smile while he's there

I'll show you something, I'll show you something
Stop at this place, stop at this place

Nearby he's still crying, I won't smile while he's there
