My head is pounding, with a resounding yes to you Ask am I willing, am I able, to turn the tables on one like you
My head is spinning, I'm not really, very appealing when not on display
There was a time when, you would question, whose been hiding behind my face
You don't notice
You don't notice
You don't notice anymore
You don't notice
You don't notice
You don't notice anymore
My heart is racing, I'm left facing the truth again Where did the years go, all of the while, taking with them all my friends
My head is spinning, I'm left swimming, to keep from drowning in you again You're just another, who wouldn't go further, and I scream your name out loud again

You don't notice
You don't notice
You don't notice anymore
You don't notice
You don't notice
You don't notice anymore
And I'm working outside now, I turn to you and speak, but you don't listen
Is this what I've been needing, my life is left standing outside
My head is pounding, with a resounding yes to you
My head is spinning, I'm left swimming, to keep from
drowning in you again
You don't notice
You don't notice
You don't notice anymore
You don't notice
You don't notice
You don't notice anymore
