I was thinner when I listened to my inner, and I rolled up on beside you
It was Fall when I looked at it all, said there's got to be some more to
This life that I'm living and I'm giving, it's a shame that I'm not trying Now I'm looking at you thicker and I'm thinking, it's a good thing I've been finding I'll be sure to call you in
When I hit the top again
In the mean time I'll be...
Traveling and living
Enduring this life
And I hope that I'm not losing you
I'm traveling and living
Enduring this life
And I hope that I'm not losing you October when I woke up sober, and arranged to start my way out

I take things to the end for my friends, to prove them wrong cause they doubt I get to know you and it's hope that I show you, and it's holding on that's worth it There's something there and I think it's unfair, and it's time that we both serve it
I'll be sure to call you in
When I hit the top again
In the mean time I'll be...
Traveling and living
Enduring this life
And I hope that I'm not losing you
I'm traveling and living
Enduring this life
And I hope that I'm not losing you
I'm never around I always change
You're always there and you're still the same
I'm always thinking of you
