An old man, just and old man, "K" for the friends
An old man, just an old man, shine on my way

Too young to know everything too young for every traps of thoughts Dark nights in my soul too young for you to know

Many women, old and young women and all the stuff that you know things will change direction Dark days in my soul too young for every trap of thoughts
... for every traps og thoughts
things will change direction

There's no more time for sorrow there's no more reason for your pain You take your life for another day waiting for the last caress ... the last caress
Many women, old and young women
and all the stuff that you know
things will change direction
How many lies I have to pay in this life
I don't need you come back 'cause things will change direction

The monkey you have on your back now it is gone .. now it is gone

Many women, old and young women
and all the stuff that you know
things will change direction
How many lies I have to pay in this life
I don't need your caress

Things will change direction

... cause things must change direction
... things must change direction
