Growing worms fester in recreation a true living abomination, crawling with worthlessness, so fucking frail and weak

To eradicate them all,
the cocoon must be destroyed, excretion of spewing cells, harvest within the nest, slithering in slime aimlessly until more have exiled, feasting through every sense of understanding, they hunger evermore in search of..
And so they remain plagues of our time An army of maggots,

inferior maggots,
inferior maggots,

replicating and devouring, in the heart of filth
