[Hersemann/Malone]

Spiraling reality consumes itself
Pushing in directions once ignored
Knowing nothing until death is dealt
Then you will rely on what was stored...
Your spirit now unshackled from it's shell
Now free to observe that which was lost
More new knowledge than you can retain
Rewards in all this far beyond the cost...
Glide...
Glide upon wings of death
Soar...
To heights unwitnessed by mortal man
Hear...
The lamentations of unrested souls
Smell...
The sulphorous smoke that follows you into death
Alight...
And view the planes of the underworld!!
Now you have seen the hereafter
Burned out eyes just empty orbs
Endless searching for something not there
Just wandering on Styx's shores
Lifelong quest for your enlightenment
Now your spirit has it's due
Bleeding blisters cover your feet
Now your search for God is through.
