Surrounded by the darkness
It all came down to soon
Longing for redemption
In this cold hospital room

God is there
What will she tell her family
Still her daddy's little girl
She can't believe she's showing

Carrying the weight of the world
God is there
Where you think he won't come to
That's where he'll be waiting for you

God is there
In the middle of your night
In every single moment
In every single light

He's reaching for you right where you are
The God of the impossible is never very far
Oh, imagine a place He would never be

No height no depth
Not life nor death separate you
Ever separate you, ever separate you

God is there
In the middle of your night
In every single moment
In every single light

He's reaching for you right where you are
The God of the impossible is never very far
Oh, imagine a place where He would never be

God is there
Ooh, God is there
