(Like They Used To)

When my grandad fell in love with my grandma
Hearts were made to last, hearts were strong
But over the years they must've changed somehow
Look at us now, something must be wrong

They don't make hearts like they used to
These days a heart ain't worth a dime
They don't make hearts like they used to
They're breaking all the time

When my folks fell in love, they had no doubt
Whatever came their way, they would just work it out
Now someone's breaking up every time you turn around
No one seems to know what love is all about

They don't make hearts like they used to
These days a heart ain't worth a dime
They don't make hearts like they used to
They're breaking all the time

If there's any hope for us to last for long
We've got to find the kind of love
Old hearts are built upon

They don't make hearts like they used to
These days a heart ain't worth a dime
They don't make hearts like they used to
They're breaking all the time
